Abstract

The purpose of this document is to show the stages for the design and development of the website for the company Secure Network. In particular, we will focus on the frontend development of the site describing the design in the large and in the small through the diagrams C-IDM and P-IDM. We will report some images of the final graphics of the site and illustrate hypothetical scenarios of interaction with it. Finally, we will present the database structure designed to support the site with the respective E-R diagram.

C-IDM Diagram

In this section we report the C-IDM diagram that we used as a basic structure for the development of the design of our website. It includes all the Topics, Kind of Topics, Groups of Topics, Multiple Groups of Topics and Nested Groups of Topics regarding the specification. In addition, all relevant relations and their cardinalities have been reported.

Mapping Content Tables into Pages

Continuing, we present the result of the application of the process of page mapping to the content tables reported in the last chapter. Each table has been divided into a series of pages, in order to increase the degree of granularity.

- Middle Right: A screenshot titled "Our Employees" showing portraits of Alberto Volpatto, Alex Conti, and Andrea Jegher, each with a "Discover" button and a "GROUP LINK" arrow pointing to it.
- Bottom: A screenshot titled "We Are Hiring!" with a "Contact Us" button. Below it is another "Secure Network" navigation bar with "LANDMARKS" and "STRUCTURAL INFO" labels. Social media icons for LinkedIn, Facebook, Twitter, and YouTube are shown, along with a "CONTACT LINK (social)" label. A red arrow labeled "CONTACT LINK (social)" points to the social media icons.

Interaction Scenarios

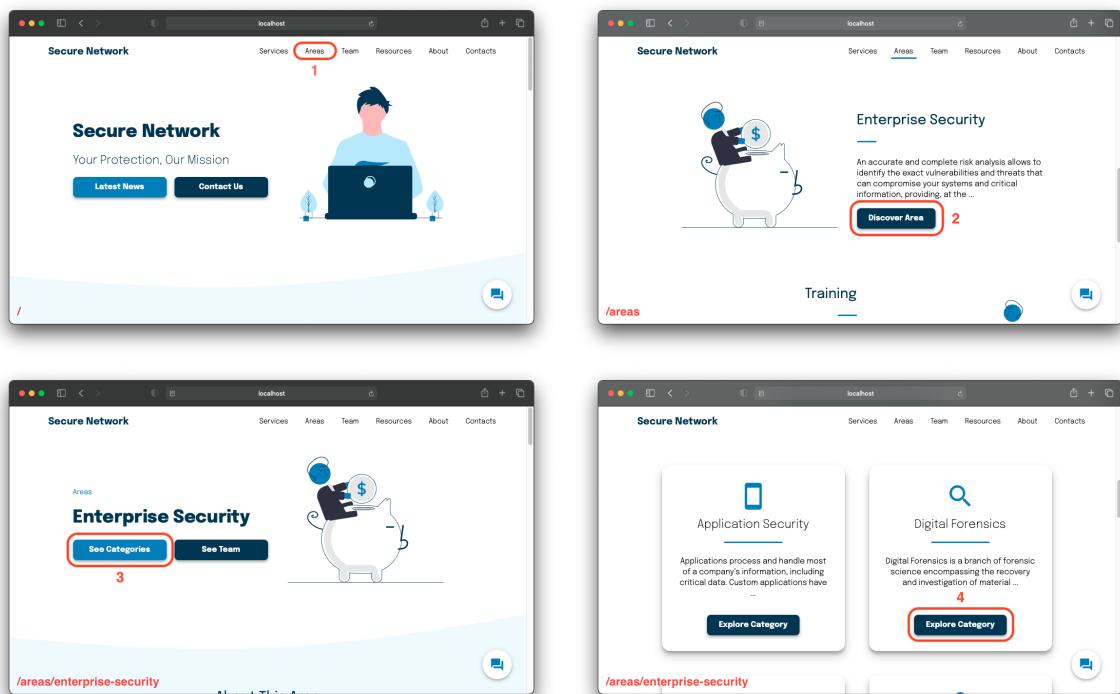

7.1 Scenario 1

An attorney from the Milan prosecutor's office is looking for a company able to retrieve evidence from a device linked to a court case.

She got the name of Secure Network and would like to find out if they can perform the job she is looking for and, in case, get a quote. To do so, she connects to the company website.

She directly goes to the Areas page and, after reading the short abstracts, she chooses to visit the page of the Enterprise Security area. There, she clicks on See Categories and examines the list that is shown to her.

Among the options, she selects the Digital Forensics category and, in the page that opens, she finds Forensics Acquisition that seems to be exactly the service she needs. After opening the page to confirm her assumptions, she browses to the Contacts page to send them an email.

7.2 Scenario 2

A recent graduate of the Politecnico is looking for his first job in the computer security field. A few days ago, he attended a workshop given by Alvise Biffi in which he mentioned that the company he founded is hiring but unfortunately he does not remember the name.

He thinks it is called Secure Network but, to be completely sure, he connects to their website and goes to the Team page where he finds Alvise Biffi. After reading the founder's biography abstract and decides to visit his page to have a complete reading.

After that, he goes back to the Team page (using the breadcrumbs on top of the page) to give another look to the employee list and there he finds the We are hiring title and clicks on the Contact Us button.

7.3 Scenario 3

During a conference, an entrepreneur came in contact with this security company from Milan that is called Secure Network. He is impressed with what he heard about them and would like to discover what they do more in depth.

After connecting to the website, he browses the Home page and reads the description of the company. He decides to click the About Us button and in that page he discovers more about their history.

There, he finds a section where the company gives some reason why cybersecurity matters and decides to give a look to the Services they offer. He only wants to have an overview, so he decides to click on the Group by Category button in order to have a look at that list.

7.4 Scenario 4

During a lecture of his course of Computer Security at Politecnico, professor Stefano Zanero mentioned an interview with him published in 2017. One of his students would really like to read it so she visits to the website of his company, Secure Network, as he told her to do. Right on the Home page, she finds some of the latest news and she spots one about his professor that she wants to read. After reading that article, she goes back to the Articles page using the breadcrumbs on top and she selects the year 2017.

Once on the year page, she filters the articles to see only the news and then she finds the interview that she was looking for.

DB Design

In this last chapter we report the structure of the database designed to support the website and manage the information contained in it. We started with the conceptual design, by which is possible to identify the first layer of abstraction of our data. It has been modelled with the Entity-Relationship diagram.

Then we proceed with the logic design, which allow to better describe the E-R Model. Some additional tables have been identified to better support the implementation.

- Area. An Area is identified by an id, has a name, a text description, a string path to the image, img, and a path to reach the specific page.
- Person. A Person is identified by an id, has a name, a surname, a text description, a string path to the image, img, a path to reach the specific page. In addition, the relation called Assignment, among Person and Area, has been merged within the first table, resulting in the addition of two fields: the area_id as foreign key and the role of the person within the area. Each Person is assigned to exactly one Area, whereas in each Area several People are assigned.
- Service_Category. This table was born due to normalization purposes. It would have been redundant adding for each Service information about the complex attribute Category. To avoid replication, we decided to perform this normalization procedure. A Service_Category is identified by an id, has a name, a text description, a string path to the image, img, and a path to reach the specific page.
- Service. A Service is identified by an id, has a name, a text description, a string path to the image, img, a path to reach the specific page. The category_id is the foreign key, used to support the normalization process described in the previous table. Each Service is mapped with exactly one Service_Category, whereas each Service_Category is mapped with several Services. In addition, the relation called Offer, among Service and Area, has been merged within the first table, resulting in the addition of the field area_id as foreign key. Each Service is offered by exactly one Area, whereas each Area offers several Services.
- Person_Service. This table was born to support the N-N relation, Provide, among Person and Service. A Person_Service is identified by an autoincremental id and presents a boolean field, isReference, which states whether or not the Person, identified by the foreign key person_id, is the reference for the Service, identified by the foreign key service_id.
- Article. A Article is identified by an id, has a type, a name, a date, a text description, a subtitle a string path to the icon, and a path to reach the specific page.
